MAIN ACTIVITIES OF UNAFEI (1 January 2021 – 31 December 2021)

I. ROLE AND MANDATE

The Asia and Far East Institute for the Prevention of Crime and the Treatment of Offenders (UNAFEI) was established in Tokyo, Japan, in 1962 pursuant to an agreement between the United Nations and the Government of Japan. Its goal is to contribute to sound social development in the Asia and the Pacific region by promoting regional cooperation in the field of crime prevention and criminal justice, through training and research.

UNAFEI has paid utmost attention to the priority themes identified by the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice. Moreover, UNAFEI has been taking up urgent, contemporary problems in the administration of criminal justice in the region, especially problems generated by rapid socio-economic change (e.g., transnational organized crime, corruption, economic and computer crime and the reintegration of prisoners into society) as the main themes and topics for its training courses, seminars and research projects.

II. TRAINING

Training is the principal area and priority of the Institute's work programmes. In the international training courses and seminars, participants from different areas of the criminal justice field discuss and study pressing problems of criminal justice administration from various perspectives. They deepen their understanding, with the help of lectures and advice from the UNAFEI faculty, visiting experts and ad hoc lecturers. This so-called "problem-solving through an integrated approach" is one of the chief characteristics of UNAFEI programmes.

Each year, UNAFEI conducts two international training courses and one international seminar. Government officials from various overseas countries receive fellowships from the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA is an independent administrative institution for ODA programmes) each year to participate in all UNAFEI training programmes.

Training courses and seminars are attended by both overseas and Japanese participants. Overseas participants come not only from the Asia-Pacific region but also from the Middle and Near East, Latin America and Africa. These participants are experienced practitioners and administrators holding relatively senior positions in the criminal justice field.

The global Covid-19 pandemic had a significant impact on UNAFEI's activities during the 2021 calendar year. All international training courses and a seminar were postponed until September 2021, when UNAFEI resumed its courses in an exclusively online format.

By the end of 2021, UNAFEI had conducted a total of 176 international training courses and seminars. UNAFEI also conducts a number of other specialized courses, both country and subject focused, in which hundreds of other participants from many countries have been involved. Over 6,100 criminal justice personnel representing 141 different countries and administrative regions have participated in these training courses and seminars. In their respective countries, UNAFEI alumni have been playing leading roles and hold important posts in the fields of crime prevention and the treatment of offenders, and in related organizations.

A. The 175th International Training Course

1. Title, Duration and Participants

The 175th International Training Course on the "Treatment of Women Offenders" took place online from 26 October to 11 November 2021, with 21 overseas participants from 11 jurisdictions.

2. Programme Overview

This programme focused on the treatment of women offenders, aiming to enhance knowledge and understanding on gender-responsive offender treatment in the community and in prisons by taking into account the gender-specific needs of women offenders. Due to the Covid-19 pandemic, the programme was conducted online. To account for the time differences and work duties of each participant, the participants were divided into two groups, and each group had live Q&A sessions with the lecturers, discussions and individual presentations online. The participants were also provided a virtual conference room and chat room through which they were able to communicate with the UNAFEI faculty and staff members as well as their colleagues in real time.

3. Lecturers

(a) Lectures

Lectures were video-recorded in advance, and the participants watched them on-demand. They submitted questions to the lecturers online in advance of the live Q&A sessions with the lecturers. Lectures were given by an expert from the United States, ad hoc lecturers from Japan and a UNAFEI faculty member:

(i) Expert from the USA

 Dr. Stephanie S. Covington (Co-Director, Institute for Relational Development and Co-Director, Center for Gender & Justice)

"Gendered Justice: Creating Services for Women"

(ii) Ad hoc lecturers

- Ms. KAMIOKA Harue (Founder of the Women's Drug Addiction Rehabilitation Center "DARC")
 - "Mother-child Support Programme for Women with Drug Use Disorders and Their Kids"
 - "Outcomes of Interviews with Women with Lived Experiences of Addiction and Their Children"
- Ms. KINOSHITA Toshimi (President of the women's halfway house "Ryozenkai")
 "Halfway House (Rehabilitation Facility) 'Ryozenkai"
- Ms. ODAGIRI Mari (Chief of the Sendai Regional Correction Headquarters)
 "Characteristics of Women's Correctional Institutions Challenges and Solutions"

In addition, Professor TAKAI Ayaka from UNAFEI provided a lecture on "Supervision of Female Clients in Community Settings in Japan".

(b) Q&A Sessions with the Lecturers

The Q&A session with Dr. Covington helped deepen the participants' understanding on the theoretical background and scientific evidence that support the idea of gender-responsive offender treatment, while the Q&A session with the Japanese lecturers focused on the practical aspects of effective gender-responsive offender treatment in the community and prison settings. During the Q&A session with Dr. Covington, the participants were divided into two breakout rooms to discuss and propose a plan to put into practice the Guiding Principles for Gender-Responsive Services recommended by Dr. Covington in her lecture. Each group presented the outcomes of their discussions and was given feedback by Dr. Covington.

4. Action Plans

At the end of the programme, participants were required to make and present their action plans to improve the treatment of women offenders in each jurisdiction based on what they had learned throughout the programme. It was obvious from the Action Plans presented by the participants that everyone remarkably enhanced their understanding on gender-responsive offender treatment and was eager to put their plans into practice in their jurisdictions, and a lot of interesting ideas were proposed to achieve gender-responsive offender treatment.

5. Feedback from the Participants

We received a lot of positive feedback from the participants, such as "This was the first time to learn about the concept of 'gender-responsiveness'", and "It was a great experience to share our practices with other participants". There were also many requests for in-person training and follow-up training. We are sure that all the participants will make the most of what they have learned throughout the programme, and despite the inability to meet in person, it was worth providing the opportunity to learn from each other online.

6. Comments from the Programming Officer (Professor SASAKI Ayako)

The concept of gender-responsive offender treatment and its practical application is relatively new in the long history of corrections in Japan, and while it seemed to be alien to the participants at the beginning of this programme, we saw that women offenders in every jurisdiction share many similar issues in areas such as drug addiction, traumatic experiences, intimate relationship violence and abuse, and parental responsibilities. It was also clear that the participants had been aware of those issues in their daily duties of treating women offenders and that the concept of gender responsiveness provided the participants with a theoretical framework and scientific approach that would be useful in practice. The course also enabled the participants to share a lot of suggestions on how to effectively handle practical issues. During the programme, I was pleased to hear from some participants that they had already shared with their colleagues the knowledge they gained through this programme, and I am confident that the outcomes of this programme will contribute to the development of treatment of women offenders in their respective jurisdictions.

B. The 176th International Training Course [Note: NL 163]

1. Title, Duration and Participants

The 176th International Training Course on "Achieving Inclusive Societies through Effective Criminal Justice Policies and Practices" took place online from 15 November to 9 December 2021, with 17 overseas participants from 11 jurisdictions.

2. Programme Overview

Goal 16 of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development (SDGs) seeks to achieve peaceful and inclusive societies, and this training course aimed to promote the role of criminal justice in achieving such societies. This programme offers participants an opportunity to share experiences and knowledge on (i) Effective measures to support crime victims and (ii) Effective measures in the pre-trial, trial and sentencing stages to prevent reoffending and facilitate offenders' social reintegration. This programme was exclusively conducted online due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

3. The Content of the Programme

(a) Lectures

In order to maximize the effectiveness of the programme, all lectures delivered by external lecturers in English, including their respective Q&A sessions, were conducted in a live online format. However, since the participants needed to continue their professional and family duties during the programme, other lectures were recorded in advance and broadcast ondemand. Specifically, participants were asked to watch on-demand video lectures and to submit their questions for the lectures via an online learning management system. The lecturers then answered the questions during recorded Q&A sessions that were broadcast ondemand. This way, we tried to provide both convenience and interactivity while delivering the training on demand.

In this programme, participants also watched on-demand video lectures by UNAFEI professors on the criminal justice system in Japan as a preliminary assignment and submitted their questions online.

In addition, the following two visiting experts from overseas and three ad hoc lecturers from Japan were invited to share their knowledge on the theme of this training course:

(i) Visiting Experts

1. Ms. Vera Tkachenko

Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Officer
United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC)
"Rethinking incarceration: Promoting partnerships to reduce reoffending"

2. His Honour Judge Jonathan Cooper
Deputy Resident Judge for Cambridgeshire, United Kingdom
"Community Sentences in England and Wales"

(ii) Ad hoc lecturer

1. Mr. MUTO Issei

Assistant Director, Crime Victim Support Office Education, Training and Welfare Division, Commissioner-General's Secretariat, National Police Agency "Crime Victim Support Provided by the Police"

2. Mr. HONDA Yuichiro

Public Prosecutor

Chief, Social Reintegration Support Office, General Affairs Department, Tokyo District Public Prosecutors' Office

"Efforts of the Social Reintegration Support Office"

3. Ms. TOMITA Satoko Attorney at Law, Chief, International Affairs Office, Japan Legal Support Center

"Japan Legal Support Center"

(b) Group Work

Participants were divided into two groups based on time zones and the themes of their choice for the Individual Presentations sessions and discussions.

> Individual Presentations

Participants shared the practices and the challenges in their respective jurisdictions regarding the theme of the Programme through their individual presentations. All the presentations were recorded and uploaded online for reference by participants in other groups or those who could not attend the sessions.

Discussions

Participants had fruitful discussions on the themes of the Programme: (i) Effective measures to support crime victims and (ii) Effective measures in the pre-trial, trial and sentencing stages to prevent reoffending and facilitate offenders' social reintegration.

(i) Effective measures to support crime victims

The participants discussed and shared their perceptions of the differences in victim and witness protection systems in different countries. This served as the basis for the following discussion. In addition to the above, we shared knowledge about the system and its operation in each country, including measures to prevent secondary victimization, including witness protection, the use of victim impact statements to appropriately consider the impact of the incident on the victim in sentencing, legal aid for victims who are particularly vulnerable and need special consideration, such as underage victims and female victims of sexual crimes, and damage recovery through restorative justice in each jurisdiction. The usefulness, challenges and operation of these systems were the subject of discussion. Although the systems adopted to support victims differ in each jurisdiction, prevention of secondary victimization by criminal justice actors is the first priority, and practical efforts to enable investigators and judicial officers to treat victims in an appropriate manner, as well as the enhancement of training to realize such efforts, are necessary to reduce the barriers for victims to report their victimization. It was also shared that these efforts enable victims to report the damage, facilitate the investigation of cases and enhance the cooperation of victims in conducting trials.

(ii) Effective measures in the pre-trial, trial and sentencing stages to prevent reoffending and facilitate offenders' social reintegration

As measures to reintegrate offenders into society, the legal frameworks and practices of various jurisdictions were introduced, including alcohol and drug courts, and various educational programmes to promote the reintegration of offenders into society. In addition, in many countries, prisons are suffering from overcrowding, which hinders appropriate correctional education for offenders. As the causes of overcrowding, participants shared the different problematic situations in each jurisdiction, such as the overuse of arrest and pre-trial detention, strict bail criteria and insufficient use of non-custodial sentencing. Then the need to improve the situation was shared. Based on this, measures to improve practice were discussed.

(c) Action Plans

Each participant concluded the programme by presenting their own action plans based on the challenges they identified and what they learned in the lectures, presentations by the colleagues and discussions.

4. Feedback from the Participants

Most of the participants said that they would have preferred to have the training in Japan because they would have liked to visit the relevant facilities to deepen their understanding of the actual practices, and they would have liked more time to interact with each other, including in informal situations. On the other hand, they also commented that they were able to cultivate knowledge online.

5. Comments from the Programming Officer

Although we see words and concepts such as the SDGs and inclusive society more and more, criminal justice practitioners are not often aware of them in their daily practice. However, it is important for them to think about the nature and history of criminal justice and the direction they should aim toward in the future by cultivating their consideration of topics that are closely related to practice. It can also serve as a milestone when dealing with difficult cases for which there are no fixed answers or when considering the framework and operation of a new system. In this sense, this training course included a long-term perspective toward 2030, the target year of the SDGs. I believe that this training course provided many useful hints for our long-term vision for the next 10 years. As the programming officer of this training course, I was exposed to a variety of ideas relating to inclusive societies, and I feel that I was able to update my own mindset. I hope the participants are able to utilize the knowledge gained from this training course for the future development of criminal justice procedures in their jurisdictions.

The webinar included four presentations, including an introduction of the topics that were discussed during Workshop 2, a presentation on reducing reoffending of female offenders by the Thailand Institute of Justice (TIJ) and reports by two UNAFEI alumni (Malaysia and Papua New Guinea) on their efforts for reducing reoffending in their respective countries. A Q&A session was held during the webinar, and an informal alumni networking session took place after the formal session.

V. INFORMATION AND DOCUMENTATION SERVICES

The Institute continues to collect data and other resource materials on crime trends, crime prevention strategies and the treatment of offenders from Asia, the Pacific, Africa, Europe and the Americas, and makes use of this information in its training courses and seminars. The Information and Library Service of the Institute has been providing, upon request, materials and information to United Nations agencies, governmental organizations, research institutes and researchers, both domestic and foreign.

VI. PUBLICATIONS

A. Annual Publications

Reports on training courses and seminars are published regularly by the Institute. Since 1971, the Institute has issued the Resource Material Series, which contains contributions by the faculty members, visiting experts and participants of UNAFEI courses and seminars. In 2021, the 112th edition of the Resource Material Series was published. Additionally, issue 162 (on the 175th International Training Course) of the UNAFEI Newsletter was published, which included a brief report on the seminar and other timely information. These publications are also available on UNAFEI's website at http://www.unafei.or.jp/english.

B. The Report of Workshop 2

As it has done for previous workshops, UNAFEI published the report of Workshop 2 of the Fourteenth United Nations Congress on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice on "Reducing Reoffending: Identifying Risks and Developing Solutions". The report was published in November 2021 in print and electronically on UNAFEI's website. The 242-page report contains the background paper for the workshop (A/CONF.234/9), the official report of the workshop (A/CONF.234/L.4), presentation papers by the keynote speakers and workshop panellists and other information related to the workshop.

C. Research Studies by UNAFEI Professors

UNAFEI's main work is to conduct international training courses and seminars for personnel in crime prevention and criminal justice administration in developing countries around the world, as well as regional and bilateral support and research on crime prevention and treatment of offenders. Through long-term international training and regional and bilateral support, UNAFEI has accumulated knowledge on criminal justice in various countries, mainly in the participating countries.

Based on this knowledge, we have published "Prevention of Crime and Treatment of Offenders", also known as UNAFEI's Resource Material Series, and other publications to introduce criminal justice systems in Japan and other Asian countries in the past.

Due to the global Covid-19 pandemic, many of the training programmes planned for the fiscal year of 2020 were postponed. Accordingly, UNAFEI decided to make use of this time to conduct research and publicize the results in Japanese. The outcome of our efforts are two Japanese publications: "Criminal Justice and Criminal Treatment Systems in Countries Assisted by UNAFEI – Cambodia, Kenya, Myanmar, Nepal and Viet Nam" and "Anti-Corruption Strategies in Southeast Asia". These publications were published in 2021.

VII. OTHER ACTIVITIES

This Programme was jointly sponsored by the Asia Crime Prevention Foundation (ACPF), the Japan Criminal Policy Society (JCPS) and UNAFEI.

The Public Lecture Programme increases the public's awareness of criminal justice issues, through comparative international study, by inviting distinguished speakers from abroad. In
